1:1 personalised communications

We've moved out of the old school of sending a million emails to everyone on your database. Now it's about tuning in to a much more targeted, personalised environment. Customers are using so many different devices now – we know if they're opening up on a tablet or Android, and what email app they're using.

How can you know where every bit of data goes in the hierarchy to reach and capture the customer, understand what they're doing on any channel at any moment, and hit them with a great real-time response?

Getting emails into the inbox

We specialise in making sure emails land in the inbox and sender reputation is kept strong. We make email campaigns and CRM super effective – getting your message past firewalls and your point across in three seconds.

If you look at any web analytics, attributes or parts of a marketing initiative, you'll see that email wins for its timelines, how cost effective it is to set up and how good it is at generating revenue. This is why email is still king.

We focus on using data to help you connect with your customers. What is a customer searching for? How can you meet their needs through email?

Contact strategy

A contact strategy starts with communication through email or another channel. From there, we look at what sparks real-time actions and what follow-ups we can build in to determine what the customer wants to hear and when. This master plan evolves over time and we look at behavioural triggers to match customers' changing lifestyle needs when they're ready.

We manage the whole campaign – getting an email from creative design and out of the 'door'. Using our consultancy, campaign management and project architecture expertise, we'll look at your target audience and marketing challenges from the very beginning and say: "Actually, before you execute this, we can make suggestions and recommendations for better, optimised journeys including the best time to send out an email. We can advise on and create an entire contact strategy from scratch.

Multi-channel contact strategy

As it's really important to integrate with other channels, we spot trends in social media and SEO to make sure your customers have really easy, personalised experiences.

We'll come up with an entire contact strategy and talk it over with you to give each customer exactly what they need. This shows them: "We listen, we interpret and we find the best outcome for you."

Cross-channel strategy

To run a great cross-channel strategy we work with you to get the data into a place where something in any moment can trigger a real-time action. We know how to capture information, trigger a follow-up email and give the customer a super smooth experience in real-time. We call this data the 'golden record' or single customer view. We've got skills in house to present data in a visual way that anyone can absorb in a few seconds.

Dynamic content and interactivity

Working closely with our data science team we identify, discover and tap into different pockets of data. With this, we create even more unexpected and personalised experiences for each customer by inserting dynamic content that matches the profile of the individual recipient. We also apply interactivity including carousels, gamification and 'surprise and delight' features such as 'tap to reveal'.

We always ask you: "What's the thinking behind the objective and is this actually going to work for your customer?". Combining our expertise, we can match the right interactivity tools to your business challenges.

Campaign performance and results

We measure the performance and results of each email campaign based on how long customers spend reading emails and how they're engaging in them. We're always looking at how we can improve personalised journeys.

"We create even more unexpected and personalised experiences
for each customer"

We'll also look at instances where the customer engaged but then nothing happened – they didn't convert to a sale or get back in contact with the brands. We need to know what that data is and find out what communications were driving them.

Over a period of time, we monitor the trends and offer nuggets of advice so the next campaign can be that little bit better. We find new ways of continuously improving the customer relationship.

Test, test, test

What's going to get the customer to open an email? There is never going to be an end to testing because things change. Our philosophy is test, test and test again. We use software for this, along with artificial intelligence, to create compelling subject lines and pre-headers.
